An noted effect of Keishika-ryukotuboreito on backache

Yoshikazu Onda*

Abstract : We report a case of 61-year-old male, suffering from obstinate backache. He was completely relieved of the backache with Keishikaryukotuboreito.

The 61-year-old taxi-driver was suffering from DM and its related eye and renal troubles. He had been treated with hemodialysis 3 times per week and underwent operations in his eyes for cataract.

He also took therapies for retinal bleeding. While he was in the hospital, he had an obstinate backache. It occurred and got worse at mid-night and he did not have a good sleep almost every night. Orthopedical examinations showed no organic disorders. He took some painkillers, anti-depressants and minor tranquilizers. He was treated with nerve block. But, none of them were effective.

Finally he took Keishikaryukotuboreito (Tj-26), 7.5g/day, which was followed with disappearance of backache on the next day. Thereafter his backache has been subdued almost completely.
